Learning Opportunity

Explore and personally reflect on the anti-racism work of Layla F. Saad and her 28 day challenge through the book Me and White Supremacy: Combat Racism, Change the World, and Become a Good Ancestor. Kim will guide you through Layla's book study process over the course of 5 sessions; the first will be introductory and the following four weeks encompass the 28 days/4 week challenge. All are welcome, but please note this book is intended for those who benefit from white privilege.

Please note that participants are required to purchase their own copy of Me and White Supremacy: Combat Racism, Change the World, and Become a Good Ancestor by Layla F. Saad

Presenters

Kim Barker-Kay

Kim is currently a consultant with the northwest region of The Consortium. Previously, Kim was a teacher, principal, and researcher in north western Alberta. Her work and research evolved into a focus on building educational equity. She spent many years involved in diversity leadership training which is now merging with an anti-racism focus. Additionally, Kim had a unique experience as the protégé of a Cree Elder for ten years. As a principal, Kim was able to put what she learned into practice with favourable student achievement results. She learned first hand the complexities involved in building educational equity which led her to her current path with infusing Indigenous ways of knowing and being into new curriculum, as well as doing a deeper exploration into decolonization and anti-racism work. Kim continues to live in the High Prairie area. Her great passions include her family and the outdoors.
